

Understanding and Preventing Plagiarism

By Mrs. Hendrick
Library Media Specialist

What is Plagiarism?

- ❑ Plagiarism is the act of taking someone else's ideas and passing them off as your own.

Types of Plagiarism

- ❑ Unintentional Plagiarism – “When a writer doesn’t paraphrase or cite their sources correctly” (Dr. Cite Right, CPCC Library).
 - ❑ Intentional Plagiarism – “When a writer deliberately copies material and takes credit for it by not acknowledging the author or creator” (Dr. Cite Right, CPCC Library).
 - ❑ Cyber Plagiarism – “When a writer cuts and pastes all or part of a work found online without giving the author credit” (Dr. Cite Right, CPCC Library).
 - ❑ Self Plagiarism – “When a writer copies or uses all or part of his or her own work and presents it as something new” (Dr. Cite Right, CPCC Library). Handing in the same paper for different courses.

Why is Plagiarism Wrong?

- ❑ Plagiarism is literary theft--stealing someone else's ideas or work.
- ❑ Self-Plagiarism is cheating.

Maintaining your academic integrity is important!

What Causes Plagiarism?

- Laziness
- Procrastination
- Disorganization
- Pressure to get an "A"
- Ignorance about how to cite sources
(Lackie)

What do you need to cite?

- Direct Quotes
- Paraphrases
- Summaries
- Creative Work
- Statistical Data
- Charts and Maps
- Political Cartoons

If you are not sure—cite it!

You Do Not Need to Cite

- ❑ Facts of Common Knowledge
- ❑ Personal Stories
- ❑ Your Own Creative and Original Ideas
- ❑ Clip Art

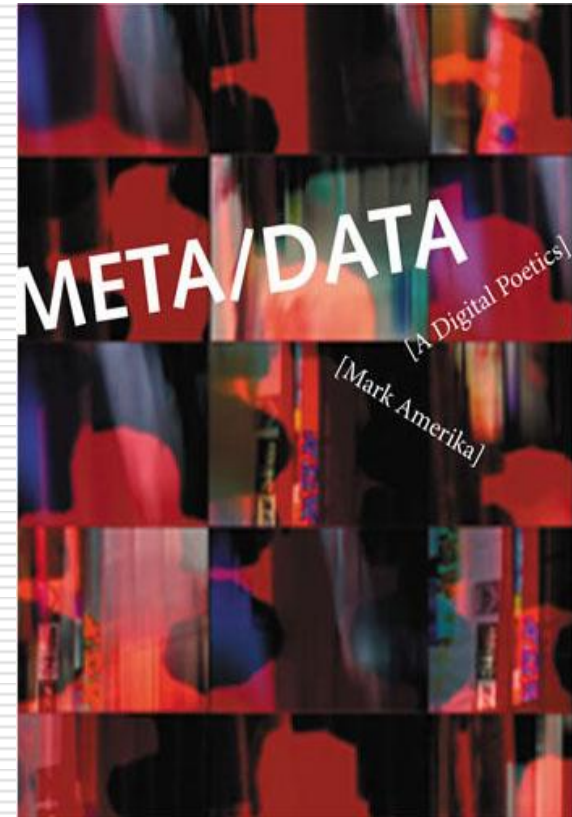

Tips to Stay Organized

- ❑ Record citation information as you locate a source
 - ❑ Electronic Notes: Save articles you plan to use for your research in a word processor (we use Microsoft Word 2010) and paste the URL links next to them so they can easily be located when you are ready to cite them.
 - ❑ Handwritten Notes: Use a graphic organizer or other note taking strategy to keep track of information needed to cite sources. See our Research Guide for a printable notes organizer.
 - ❑ Type your works consulted page as you locate resources. KnightCite @ <http://www.calvin.edu/library/knightcite/> will help format your citations.

Information to Record for Citations

- Author(s) or Name of Organization
- Title of Article
- Title of Work (or Website)
- Volume (if applicable)
- Date of Publication
- Publisher (or Website Sponsor)
- City of Publication
- Page Numbers if Available
- Date of Access
- Format of Publication (Web, Print, etc.)
- Website URLs

Test Your Knowledge

This is a fun interactive game that tests your knowledge about plagiarism and can be done in class or as homework.

Goblin Threat

Instructions:

Go to the link below, enter your name and click start. When you have completed the game print a copy of the certificate page to hand in to your teacher.

Plagiarism Game

Congratulations Mrs. Hendrick!
Your knowledge of plagiarism has saved the campus from the goblins!
Print this screen for your professor as proof of completing this game.

NOTES ABOUT PRINTING: Flash files do not print in the Google Chrome browser. If you are using a Google Chrome or a laptop without printer access, you can create a screenshot by pressing the Print Screen button on your keyboard, then pasting into a new Word document.

This is what the certificate will look like.
